GENTLE WORDS.

Why immediately in a Blaze,
Why not speak gently?

Kind words revive the weary soul,
And cheer its saddest hours,
As dew refreshes drooping leaves,
And brightens fading flowers.

They fall, like sunshine, round the
Of those who weary roam, (path
And are the "open sesame"
To every heart and home.

We know the spring will soon appear,
When round us flies the swallow.
So kind words should be harbingers
Of gentle deeds which follow.

Upon the brow of want and care
The joys of life they fling,
And change the soul's dark night
Its winter into spring. (to day,

Then let your deeds be gentle deeds,
Your words be words of love:
They are the brightest gems which
In angels' crowns above. (shine

MATTIE BELL.

Forgiving Injuries.

"Do my lord of Canterbury an ill turn,
and you make him your friend for ever."— Proverb.

Cranmer, Archbishop of Canterbury, gave occasion to the by-word of our heading. As indeed nothing but the high principles of religion are so well calculated to expand the mind so considerably that it will try to arrest the cause of offence instead of resisting it.

Archbishop Cranmer appeared almost alone, in the higher classes, as the friend of truth in evil times, and a plot was formed to take away his life. The providence of God, however, so ordered it,
that the papers which would have completed the plan were intercepted, and traced to their authors, one of whom lived in the archbishop's family, and the other he had greatly served. He took these men apart in his palace, and told them that some persons in his confidence had disclosed his secrets, and even accused him of heresy. They loudly censured such villany, and declared the traitors to be worthy of death; one of them adding, that if an executioner was wanted, he would perform the office himself. Struck with their perfidy, after lifting his voice to heaven, lamenting the depravity of man, and thanking God for his preservation, he produced their letters, and inquired if they knew them.
They now fell on their knees, confessed
their crimes, and implored forgiveness.
Cranmer mildly expostulated with them
on the evil of their conduct, forgave them, and never again alluded to their treachery. His forgiveness of injuries was so well known, that it became a by-word, "Do my lord of Canterbury an ill turn, and you make him your friend
for ever."

The Inquisition of Madrid.

TAKEN BY THE FRENCH.

Then the faces of the inquisitors grew pale as Belshazzar, when the handwriting appeared on the wall; they trembled all over. Beneath the marble slab, now partly up, there was a stair-case. I stepped to the altar, and took from the candlestick one of the candles four feet in length, which was burning, that I might explore the room below. As I was doing this, I was arrested by one of the inquisitors, who laid his hand gently on my arm, and with a very demure and holy look said, "My son, you must not take those lights with your bloody hands, they are holy."—"Well," I said, "I will take a holy thing to shed light on iniquity; I will bear the responsibility!"

I took the candle, and proceeded down the staircase. As we reached the foot of the stairs we entered a large square room, which was called the Hall of Judgment. In the centre of it was a large block, and a chain fastened to it. On this they had been accustomed to place the accused, chained to his seat. On one side of the room was one elevated seat called the Throne of Judgment. This the Inquisitor General occupied, and on either side were seats less elevated, for the holy fathers when engaged in the solemn business of the Holy Inquisition.

From this room we proceeded to the right, and obtained access to small cells,
extending the entire length of the edifice;
and here such sights were presented as we hoped never to see again.

These cells were places of solitary confinement, where the wretched objects of inquisitorial hate were confined year after year, till death released them from their sufferings, and there their bodies were suffered to remain, until they were entirely decayed, and the rooms had become fit for others to occupy. To prevent this being offensive to those who occupied the inquisition, there were flues or tubes extending to the open air, sufficiently capacious to carry off the odor. In these cells we found the remains of some who had paid the debt of nature; some of them had been dead apparently but a short time, while of others nothing remained but their bones, still chained to the floor of their dungeon.

In other cells we found living sufferers of both sexes and of every age, from three score years and ten down to fourteen or fifteen years—all naked as when born into the world! and all in chains! Here were old men and aged women, who had been shut up for many years. Here, too, were the middle aged, and the young man and the maiden of fourteen years old. The soldiers immediately went to work to release these captives from their chains, and took from their knapsacks their overcoats and other clothing, which they gave to cover their nakedness. They were exceedingly anxious to bring them out to the light of day; but Col. L., aware of the danger, had food given them,

and then brought them gradually to the light, as they were able to bear it.

We then proceeded, said Col. L., to explore another room on the left. Here we found the instruments of torture, of every kind which the ingenuity of men or devils could invent. Col. L. here described four of these horrid instruments. The first was a machine by which the victim was confined, and then,
beginning with the fingers, every joint
in the hands, arms, and body, were broken or drawn one after another, until the victim died. The second was a box, in which the head and neck of the victim were so closely confined by a screw that he could not move in any way. Over the box was a vessel, from which one drop of water a second fell upon the head of the victim—every successive drop falling upon precisely the same place on the head, suspended the circulation in a few moments, and put the sufferer in the most excruciating agony. The third was an infernal machine, laid horizontally, to which the victim was bound; the machine
then being placed between two beams,
in which were scores of knives so fixed
that, by turning the machine with a crank,
the flesh of the sufferer was torn from his limbs all in small pieces. The fourth surpassed the others in fiendish ingenuity.
Its exterior was a beautiful woman, or large doll, richly dressed, with arms
extended, ready to embrace its victim.
Around her feet a semi-circle was drawn.
The victim who passed over this fatal mark, touched a spring, which caused the diabolical engine to open; its arms clasped him, and a thousand knives cut him into as many pieces in the deadly embrace.

Col. L. said that the sight of these engines of infernal cruelty kindled the rage of the soldiers to fury. They declared that every inquisitor and soldier of the Inquisition should be put to the torture.

NOTICE.

Ophir Lodge No. 21, L. O. B. B., will hold their weekly meetings every Wednesday evening, at 7 1-2 o'clock, at the Temperance Hall in Washington, between Sansome and Montgomery streets.
Members and sojourning brethren of good standing are respectfully invited.
M. B. ASHIM, Pres.
LEWIS KAPLAN, Sec.

To our Subscribers.

We seriously request our Country Subscribers to make remittance for papers sent, in many instances, from the first number of the "Gleaner," about two years ago. It is an easy matter to enclose a small sum in cash, in postage stamps, or a draft on some friend here; while we have not time to send bills in every direction.

The publication has to be carried on, and indeed, the intelligent portion of our people in this city, try their best to see the "Gleaner" prosper, but the country in general acts remissly.

We shall be obliged if again our friends in the different cities, towns, and camps, would assist us by soliciting subscriptions and payments for the "Gleaner," and remit. All remittances will be acknowledged in our columns; and the balance, where there is some, carried to account.

Those subscribers who paid one quarter on the resumption of the "Gleaner," last August will oblige us by continuing and renewing their subscriptions.

Irregularity of the Mails.

Subscribers whom the "Gleaner" does not reach regularly, may give us notice, and we shall try to supply them with arrear numbers.

Lost copies.

It affords us pleasure to see a number of subscribers file the "Gleaner," and for this purpose apply for back numbers. We beg such to be more careful in future, as some send us in too long a list of missing copies.

Theological.

The Word and the Sword.

Is the use of physical force in the promotion of Religion admissible on Christian principles?

I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will save them by the Lord their God, and will save them by the Lord their God, and will not save them by the bow, nor by the sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen.—Hosea 1: 7.

Not by armies, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.—Zechariah 4: 6.

"Then said Jesus unto Peter, put up thy sword—the cup which my father has given me, shall I not drink it?" John xviii: Matthew xxvi, 52.

Then said Jesus unto him, put up again thy sword into his place: for all they that lift the sword shall perish with the sword.

Thinkest thou that I cannot now pray to my Father, and he shall presently give me more than twelve legions of angels.—Matthew xxvi: 53 and 55.

One of the most effectual means towards the removal of actual or reputed errors, is fair inquiry, on the honest conviction that any institution, were it even established by God himself, must be imperfect as soon as man is the medium of its communication.

In the second place, the correctness of the idea that the system under which we are brought up is the only good and saving one, ought to be doubted on the ground already that this self-complacency is the creed of all erroneous systems, and is adopted by all nations so long as they continue in a state of puerility and ignorance and no longer.

For this is the boast (as we had occasion to mention in another place) of the ignorant Chinese, Jew, Roman Catholic and Protestant, and as every sectarian sees that, with all except himself, this preference is but imaginary, and he believes all others mistaken but himself, it is but a reasonable and fair conclusion that the idea is altogether the child of unfounded self-esteem. "Nemo solus sapit," (no one ought to think himself only right)—And should such a self-conceited sectarian call in evidence, he would have fifty against himself—and what evidence is that—that he is wrong; and ought not such evidence to amount to proof? The best judges in the matter admit that as physically perfect sanity is a rare case, so dogmatically absolute truth is a nonentity; and the haughtiness of the sect is commensurate with the ignorance of its adherents.

The fact that the Roman Catholic Church does make converts by violence, is known; that her canons and decretals countenance force when persuasion would fail, we shall show from their own sources. Without, therefore, intending to wound the feelings of any member of that church, any further than we do those of that system in which we were born in holding to view our errors in matter of belief, we will now fairly look into the Christian records and see whether the Church is justified in sending police and gens d'armes to force converts into her bosom, and to keep an army to protect herself against infidelity and heresy.

From our text it would appear that the head of the Church did decidedly prohibit his true disciples the use of the sword, or violent means in defence, even of his own life. The text is one of sad interest, and ought always to have been present before the eyes of the rulers and leaders of the Church, and we would have had less persecution and bloodshed. The scene as presented by the text is a highly affecting one. Jesus, while peaceably engaged in earnest prayer in the deep of night in the garden of Gethshamneh, surrounded by his disciples, is attacked by a multitude armed with swords and staves, laid hands on, and made a prisoner. This multitude is headed by one of his former disciples, who now betrayed him. Peter, another disciple, indignant at the treachery and ill-treatment of his master, drew his sword and smote a man. Jesus, displeased to see arms used in his defence, said: "Peter, put up thy sword."

Such is the lesson Christianity teaches her followers to be observed, even in dealings with traitors, even against those who fell, like thieves of the night, upon Jesus himself—"laid hands on him and bound him." Yet, for all that, he wanted no force, much less violence to be used; his disciples are not to use swords in his defence; "Peter, put up thy sword," said Jesus.

Such was the command of the founder of the Church, whose Vicar the Pope is predicated to be; such the reproof given to the Apostle, whose successor the Pope is represented to be, and whose seat he is stated to occupy. From facts of former ages, and reports of our age, "Peter" still keeps the sword in hand and strikes—not at traitors and their associates—but at those men of Israel and the Gentiles which circumstances have brought under his sway—and the Vicarius filii Dei, the Vicar, representative and ambassador of Jesus, does to this day act in opposition to the command of Jesus. The Pope uses gens d'armes and soldiers.

If it be pleaded that these physical agencies are employed to save souls, we reply so was the sword of Peter; he wanted to prevent men from using force in betraying Jesus, and yet Jesus says peremptorily "Peter, put up thy sword." Peter, of Jerusalem, lifted his sword in self-defence, against the aggressors; Peter at Rome, against harmless, innocent men and children—he is offensive. Can such conduct be justified in the successors of Jesus? Dare such be perpetrated by the successor of Peter?

Jesus deprecates the use of arms even in cases of necessity and exigency; the text of our quotation represents him a little before he was taken, to have been greatly depressed in spirit, to have been in great anxiety of mind. "He began to be sorrowful and very heavy," (Matthew, 26:38) and said, "My soul is exceedingly sorrowful, even unto death," (Ib. 38.) and he said to his disciples, "watch with me." (Ib.) In this, his anxiety, he prayed, and what did he ask for? "O my father, if possible, let this cup pass from me," (Ib. 39.)—yet he is betrayed and taken—Peter wants to resist, but his master said: "Peter, put up thy sword!" What a lesson to Christians! what a lesson to the successor of Peter! what an example to the "Vicar of the Son of God!"

It cannot be denied but the Church of Rome uses the iron arm of physical power to spread the "kingdom" of Jesus—she does so in punishing heretics born within her pale, as also forcing children under her sway without their own or their guardian's assent or knowledge. The Inquisition, the hand of the Pope, pretending to be the support of religion, uses physical (most gross as also most refined) means to promote what she preaches as Christianity. But is this the Christianity of Jesus, of the Gospel, or that delivered by the Apostles? Our text says, Religion and Inquisition are antagonistic; Christianity and the sword uncombinable: the Pope and Jesus in diametrical opposition. Peter (the Church) uses the sword; though Jesus calls to put up the sword.

Miscellaneous.

READ AND REFLECT.—The "Old Theology" was forcibly presented in the reply of a student at a recent examination of Andover Theological seminary. Being asked, "In what sense did Christ die for all?" he answered, "He died for the elect, to provide a way of salvation, and for the none-elect that they might be more effectually damned."—Bulletin.

This definition in other words says that he was a Physician to the comparative by whole; but (worse than) death to the sick. Christian orthodox readers may well reflect on the subject.—Ed. GLEANER.

COSTS OF OUR SCHOOLS.—The expenses of the Public Schools of the city of San Francisco, for the year ending June 30th, was 104,502 58, and from June to the present week, they amount to $33,594—of which 5,000 were for permanent improvements. The enrollment of children of an age to attend the Public Schools, gives a total of 5,500, but the Call says the average attendance has been but 2,600.

ISABELLA, QUEEN OF FERDINAND, THE CATHOLIC.—Da Costa, in his work "Israel and the Nations," (p. 247,) mentions that Isabella of Castile, who, in conjunction with her husband, inflicted upon Israel the greatest calamity that befel the nation since the time of Hadrian, was on her mother's side of Jewish extraction. She was descended in the female line from John I. of Portugal, whose mother was a Jewess. Truly the prophet was right, when he foretold, "Thy destroyers and thy devastators shall go forth from thee."—Jewish Chronicle.

* The learned editor will excuse us for referring him for the true meaning of this text, to the context. Mimaich ya-tzai-ah, is here pronounced as a blessing, "they shall go forth from thee; shall no more trouble thee."—Ed. GLEANER.

A CURIOSITY.—The Emperor Napoleon III. records in his 4th volume, page 68, the following incident: "In 1440, Charles VII., says Moustrelet, sent to Tournay and to Auvergne, of Flanders, to purchase some artillery and war ammunition, to carry them to Paris. In 1466 this King repaid to Gaspard Berreau (master-general of the artillery) a certain sum for a Jew, whom he had sent from Germany, in order to teach certain subtle things touching artillery matters."—U. S.

ATLANTIC CABLE.—Mr. Seward, the Secretary of the company, says:—"This, however, though encouraging, must be regarded as a permanent state of things, as it is still clear there is a serious fault in the cable, while at the same time it is not at present absolutely clear that any except the most extraordinary aid to the cable dangerous efforts can be made, to overcome the existing obstacles in the way of perfect working."

But what, if the New Orleans Delta of Nov. 5th, is true, the whole affair is sheer humbug—no communication was ever made. If so, the fraud is stupendous.

THE FRENCH AMBASSADOR at Rome had, by direction of the Emperor, made a strong representation to the Pope against the recent abduction by the Catholics of the Jewish child at Mortara.—N. Y. Herald.

SCHOOL CHILDREN.—The whole number of children in this city* is 12,602—6347 boys and 6028 girls. Under four years of age, 6022; between four and eighteen 6557; born in California 7539; blind, 1; deaf and dumb 3; orphans 297; colored 325; Chinese 52. Total number attending school 527; attending private schools 1161.—Call.

THE JEWISH CHRONICLE ENLARGED.—We are glad to see the London "Jewish Chronicle and Hebrew Observer" appear in an enlarged size. This valuable paper had to contend against pecuniary embarrassments for several years, which, to relieve, recourse had to be had to the liberality of friends, till the present editor, Dr. Benish, devoted his energies to its publication, and by perseverance succeeded in establishing it on a proper basis.

SUBMARINE CABLE.—The employees of the Atlantic Telegraph Company had received notice that they would be discharged on the 30th of November, unless favorable symptoms of a current should previously occur.

A mine of pure silver ore has been discovered near Camp Floyd.

THE OREGON APPLE TRADE.—$250,000 worth of apples are supposed to have been shipped from Oregon to the California market.

JUST.—President Buchanan has issued a proclamation against the filibusters—directed especially against Walker's projected raid on Nicaragua.

STAY AWAY FROM CHURCH.—It has been said that every man has at least one good point in his character. A gentleman traveling on Sunday, was obliged to stop to have one of the shoes of his horse replaced. The farrier was just going to church, but suggested that Jim Harrison might be found at home at the next forge. This proved to be true, and the rustic who had led the gentleman's horse to the spot exclaimed: "Well, I must say that for Jim, for it is the only good point about him, he never does go to church."

One day at the table of the Dean of glory, just as the cloth was being removed, the subject of discourse happened to be that of an extraordinary mortality among the lawyers. "We have lost," said a gentleman, "not less than six eminent barristers in as many months." The Dean, who was quite deaf, rose as his friend finished his remarks, and gave the company grace—"For this and every other mercy, the Lord's name be praised." The effect was irresistible.

TEMPERATURE IN CAVES AND CELLARS.—If in the heat of summer we descend into a cave, we are sensible that we are surrounded by a cold atmosphere; but if in the rigor of a frosty winter, we descend into the same, we are conscious of the presence of a warm atmosphere. Now a thermometer suspended in the cave on these occasions, will show exactly the same temperature; and, in fact the air of the cave maintains the same temperature at all seasons of the year. The body, however being in one case, removed from a warm atmosphere into a colder one, and, in the other case, from a very cold atmosphere into one of a higher temperature, becomes in the latter case, sensible of warmth, and in the former, of cold.

WHEN TO WEAR INDIA RUBBERS.—We notice that many persons wear India Rubbers in cold, dry weather, to keep their feet warm. This is an injurious and evil practice. India rubber shoes are very comfortable and convenient for covering the feet during the wet and sloppy weather, but they should never be worn on any other occasion, their sole use should be to keep out the water. They should, however, therefore, be put off whenever the wearer enters the house, and be worn as little as possible, because they are air tight, and restrain the perspiration of the feet. The air cannot be excluded from them, or any portion of the body for any length of time, without sensibly affecting the health. It is our opinion that no habit tends more to good health than clean feet, and clean dry stockings, so as to allow the free perspiration of the nether extremities. — Scientific American.

OVERLAND MAILS.

Postmaster Weiler has published the following in relation to the overland mails: Hereafter I shall dispatch from this office, on the 5th and 20th of each month, a mail via Tehuantepec to New Orleans.

I am directed by the Postmaster General to request writers of letters destined to places in the Atlantic States to endorse thereon the route by which they wish them sent, as, to wit:—"Via Los Angeles, Overland"; "Via Salt Lake, Overland"; "Via Tehuantepec."

Letters with no such endorsements upon them, and all newspapers will be sent "Via Panama."

Three cents will pay the postage on a single letter "Via Overland" as far as Chicago, Ill., and Cincinnati, Ohio. Beyond those points the postage will be ten cents.

Dietetics.

(BY A. M. LORVEA, M. D.)

Mutton broth is apt to disagree with persons having delicate stomachs, especially if the fat be not skimmed off. It is useful to promote the action of purgative medicines.

Mutton, roasted, has been known to bring on an attack of indigestion, caused by the change the fat undergoes by heat.

In dyspeptic individuals, fat does not become properly dissolved. It floats on the food in the form of an oily liquid, becoming odorous, and sometimes highly rancid, and in this state excites heartburn, most disagreeable nausea, and eructations.

LAMB forms a considerable article of food. Being light and tender, it is used by delicate persons, but is not as nourishing as mutton. The same difference takes place between young and old—that is between lamb and full grown sheep, as between veal and beef.

PORK yields a copious and permanent nourishment, which does well agree with the robust and laborious, but which, from its abundance of fat, is not wholesome to persons of a weak stomach and sedentary lives.

There are many distinguished medical men, who believe that "swine-flesh" produces scrofula, and they use strong arguments and have some substantial proofs, to make us arrive at a conclusion, that the Law-givers of old, were very wise in prohibiting the Israelites from partaking of such food, so we would recommend a total abstinence from it.

Tape Worm is supposed by some to owe its existence to the introduction of pork in our bodies, and it is a well known fact, that the Israelites are but seldom afflicted with this parasite.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A CARD.

Mr. S. Levy, having been one of the first whose calls introduced him into the families of our faith on joyful occasions, has shared the joys with many a happy parent in the early days of our settlement here, when the small circle of our pioneers was still amalgamated without regard to country or birth. He has gained the confidence of coreligionists for the first seven years of our settlement when he was supplanted by new comers with whom, as a plain-spoken man, without guile and flattery, he apparently could not compete; and having a large family to support, he had to try to find that support for them without which apparently his calling no more afforded him within this city. Following the general tide of emigration North and its reflux, he now again has returned to his family in this city.

He respectfully solicits from his former patrons in this city and country, that support and patronage which his circumstances require, and which the acknowledged general satisfaction he gave, justify him in the hope of being able again to secure.

His friends in the country will please notice.

No. 166 CALIFORNIA STREET.

Hebrew Inscriptions executed with precision, and neatness. All work done in the best manner, at the lowest prices.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, &c.

THE EMPORIUM

FOR

TOYS, MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, MUSIC, GENUINE ITALIAN STRINGS, FANCY GOODS AND TOYS, ELEGANT TOMBSTONES.

"PLEASING TO BEHOLD."

On passing Mr. Hayes, Sculptor, on the north side of California street, between Montgomery and Kearny, the reader may see an elegant tombstone, the inscription of which Hebrew and English, and their symmetrical proportions, presenting some similarity to an urn, are well worthy of inspection. Almost every Hebrew letter is as correctly proportioned as those turned out from the type foundry.

Mr. Hayes executes work at very moderate rates. Orders from the country will be executed with the greatest punctuality, and the stone forwarded safely into the country, with scarcely any extra charge.

The Family.

"Paying off Mother."

(TO CHILDREN.)

"Mother," said a little black-eyed boy of six years, "when you get old and want some one to read to you, I will pay you off."

Little Alexander's mother had been in the habit of reading to him a great deal, and on this Sabbath day she had read to him a long time out of the Bible and a Sabbath School book. The child was just able to read a little himself, and the progress he was making doubtless suggested to him how he might, at some future time, return in kind all his mother's care. "I will pay you off, mother," said he, looking up into her face with a childish satisfaction, and as if a new thought from heaven had been sent down to light up the little world of his soul. His mother pressed him to her heart with a delight that seemed to say, "My dear son, I am more than paid off already."

But, children, you can never "pay off mother." Her thoughts of love are more in number than the days of life. From the hour of birth, mother has been one with you. How often has she nourished you, dressed you, kissed you, rocked you on her knee and in a cradle, carried you tenderly in her arms, watched over you in sleep, guided your infant steps, delighted in the dawning intelligence of your eye, and the winning affection of your smile, hushed your pains and sufferings, sweetly adjudged many appeal-cases to her sympathy, corrected at times your misdeeds, thought of you in absence, and guarded your life with the unvarying remembrance of a mother's solicitude and the free will offering of a mother's devotion! Ah, dear child, you can never "pay off mother!"

Has your mother taught you to read and to pray? Has she patiently sat by you and taught you the letters of the alphabet; and then helped you to put them together, and to spell words of thought? Has she taught you to lisp the holy name of God, before you could speak. And before you could read, she taught you to say, "Our Father, which art in heaven?" She has prayed for you when none but God knew it, and has prayed with you when your wandering eyes understood not the meaning of her grave and imploring looks. She has taken you on the Sabbath to church, and showed you how to behave in the sanctuary, and by her example she has pointed you to heaven, and "led the way." Dear child, you can never "pay off mother!"

Yes, there is one way—there is one way in which you can more than "pay off mother." It is by loving God and by preparing for heaven. Mother is going there. She is getting ready for that blessed abode, where the parent and children may meet together and be happier than ever they were here. Yes, my dear child, obey the will of God, and you may be sure "to pay off" the good you received from your loving mother.—(Changed from the Pacific Methodist.)

Beware of Frightening Children.

In the city of New-York a few years since, a little child was left in the evening in the care of a maidservant, the mother having gone out. As the child was disposed to be troublesome and to cry, after being placed at the usual time to bed in another room, the domestic resorted to the expedient of quieting it by making and placing before it the image of some frightful object. The fears of the little child were greatly excited; and when, in the latter part of the evening, the mother returned and went to the room, she found it dead; its eyes being open and fixed with a singularly wild and maniac kind of stare on the frightful image, which the girl had so cruelly placed before it.

Sagacity of a Dog.

A robbery of about $9,000 was committed a few weeks ago at the house of Mr. Hoen, of Santa Rosa, in relation to which the S. F. Herald states an instance of canine sagacity well worth recording:

"We were informed by a gentleman from the town of Santa Rosa, that on Wednesday morning the dog entered the house bearing a hat in his mouth. The moment Mrs. Vally saw the hat she recognised it as one worn by one of the robbers at the time the house was pillaged. Mr. Hoen, struck with the circumstance, replaced the hat in the dog's mouth, he having dropped it in the room, and hid him on ahead on the road he came. The dog seemed to comprehend at once what was required of him, and, wagging his tail in a knowing way, trotted on briskly in the advance, Mr. Hoen following sharply after. In this manner they continued their jaunt for some distance, when the dog suddenly stopped in an out of the way canon, let go his hold upon the hat, and looked up to his master as if to say, "here is where I picked it up." On closely inspecting the spot, Mr. Hoen remarked that the earth looked as if it had been recently removed, and he started back to the house for a spade, the dog in the meantime standing watch over the hat. As soon as he returned, Mr. Hoen commenced digging, and in a short time had the inexpressible satisfaction of turning up all the county warrants and promissory notes, amounting to $5,500 and $1,300 in cash, which had doubtless been buried there by the robbers, who had only taken a portion of the cash for immediate use."

A BEAUTIFUL IDEA.—A little Swedish girl, while walking out with her father on a starry night, absorbed in contemplation of the sky, being asked of what she was thinking, replied—"I was thinking if the wrong side of heaven is so glorious what must the right side be?"—Masonic Mirror.
